Formerly curator of Zoology at the Hunterian Museum, University of Glasgow, I am now an honorary research fellow there. I have been Book Reviews Editor for Archives of Natural History since 2018. Having taken on the role, relatively inexperienced, I have learned an enormous amount in the last six years from the professional and talented editorial team at SHNH and from the publisher EUP, both of whom I enjoy working with. I am now networked internationally with a wide variety of reviewers and publishers. Book reviews are a popular feature of the journal and I aim to maintain this success.
